

Chan Zuckerberg Initiative Education Advisory Board

Our Education Advisory Board will help support AI initiatives to bridge learning science and classroom practices

The Advisory Board members are:

Dan Carroll

Former Chief Product Officer and co-founder of Clever, the most widely used single sign-on (SSO) platform for K-12 schools, enabling digital learning for over 95,000 schools (reaching 60% of U.S. students). A former middle school science teacher and technology director at a public charter school, Dan now serves as an advisor and investor in education technology.

Richard Culatta

CEO of ISTE+ASCD, the leading organization supporting educators in designing the future of learning. Richard previously served as the Chief Innovation Officer of Rhode Island and Director of the Office of Educational Technology at the U.S. Department of Education, where he launched transformative initiatives like Future Ready, GoOpen, and the National EdTech Plan.

Alina von Davier

Chief of Assessment at Duolingo, CEO and Founder of EdAstra Tech, and VC Partner at the LearnLaunch Accelerator, Alina is a leading expert in computational psychometrics, leveraging machine learning and Bayesian inference to develop cutting-edge digital assessments. She is an Honorary Research Fellow at the University of Oxford and a Senior Research Fellow at Carnegie Mellon University, and holds a doctorate in mathematics and has previously served as Senior Research Director at Educational Testing Service (ETS).

Louis Gomez

Professor of Education at UCLA and a member of the National Academy of Education. Louis focuses on school improvement, organizational learning, applied cognitive science, and the use of computing and networking technology in education.

Babak Mostaghimi

Founding Partner of LearnerStudio, an organization accelerating progress toward a learner-centered, future-ready U.S. education system. Previously, as an Assistant Superintendent in Gwinnett County Public Schools, Babak spearheaded critical initiatives, including a community ecosystem for birth to age five early learning and a PK-12 AI and future-ready learning program.

Amelia Vance

Amelia Vance, a child and student privacy expert, is the Founder and President of the Public Interest Privacy Center (PIPC), a nonprofit organization that aims to equip stakeholders with the insights, training, and tools needed to cultivate effective, ethical, and equitable privacy safeguards for all children and students. Amelia also teaches privacy law and EU data protection at William & Mary Law School and is a founder and co-chair of the Federal Education Privacy Coalition.

